Record Wheat and New Spuds Ready

Jim Sackett, of Cheadle, informs us that, since reading the Chronicle last week, he has measured his wheat, which, he says, beats the last record, which was 47 inches high. His is 57 inches high and is still green.

Now, coming to the spuds, Jim says they have been eating fresh ones since the last day of June. These, of course, are volunteer spuds, which had not been dug last fall, and stood the winter, having been well sheltered by trees and covered by a tall snow bank, which did not melt until late this spring.

Wedding Bells

McARTHUR—McLAREN

A pretty wedding took place at Grace Presbyterian Church, Calgary, on June 27th at 7:30, when Margaret Agnes, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLaren, Madden, Alberta, became the bride of Mr. Alexander Clifford McArthur, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McArthur, of Calgary. The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attended by her sister, Mrs. F. C. Wilson, as matron of honour, and Miss L. Cornell, bridesmaid. Mr. D. B. Ireton was best man.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin, slightly entaine, and a long veil arranged under a halo. She carried Johanna Hill roses and Valley lilies.

Mrs. Wilson wore a becoming model of pine net with a blue velvet sash and carried roses and carnations. The bridesmaid was in turquoise blue net with a wine velvet sash; she also carried roses and carnations; both attendants wore rosebuds in their hair.

During the signing of the register Mr. W. Lasher sang "Because". After the wedding supper, at the Tea Kettle Inn, Mr. and Mrs. McArthur left for a motor trip through the Western States. The bride travelled in a blue lace dress, beige coat and blue accessories. They will reside in Turin, Alberta.

simple basket lunch and remain for good fellowship and sing-song.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Editor:

We find, wherever we go, that people cut a caper whenever we talk about your paper. For instance, Harry Franks nearly got the shakes when Mrs. Stone read to him about his daughter's breaks; and then the Water Valley Corry clown's one, when Dan's hat bri gs home the little brown one.

Mrs. Ingham and her daughter set a kick from the news which the mail man brought her.

Then there's the S.C. shoes and booze, and views, and also someone WXY'ing for fear we would all be crying; and along at the end there comes a friend who does everything but holler, "sic'em tramp 'em, kick 'm, bite 'em, lick 'em."

We must not forget Frank Parker as he is the Mad en Sparker, who wants your editorial views, but me thinks you better stay with your "Goozles" and the news, unless you want a debate, which nearly always winds up in a song of hate.

Then we take the coupons for the Waterloo and buy a drum of gas or two, wind up the old red truck, while the wife throws in a box of chuck, and the taxpayer joots the hills while we jyyride through the hills. You can bet your shirts, it's the truth that hurts, and for all this we apologize to our corry, although we're not a darn bit sorry.

Madden Notes

Mr. Fred Ingham is visiting at Pincher Creek with Mr. and Mrs. Ken McRae.

Many of the Madnen Old Timers visited at the home of Mr. and Mr. J. Laidlaw of Lochend, who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary July 12.

Mrs. Baptie, of Exshaw, is a visitor at the home of Mrs. R. Walsh.

Cochrane Constituency S.C. Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the Cochrane Constituency Social Credit Association, held at Mad den on July 7th, was very successful in spite of the several heavy showers. While there was much regret that the Hon. Mr. Solen E. Low, Provincial Treasurer, was unable to be present owing to sickness, Mr. W. R. King, M.L.A., Cochrane, Mrs. Edith Gostick, M.L.A., Calgary, and Mr. C. E. Johnston M. P., Bow River, gave very interesting and instructive talks, which were very much appreciated by the crowd, who were able, through the use of the Bannister Electric Loudspeaker Microphone Systems, to sit in their cars and hear quite plainly.

The sports were much enjoyed by all. Special prizes were given to the largest family of three generations present. To the couple longest married and resident in the Cochrane Constituency. A prize was given to the lady whose home was farthest away from the picnic grounds. This was won by a lady from B.C. Many other prizes were awarded for various contests, which were much enjoyed.

A dance concluded the annual event, at which no one showed signs of being down-hearted.

The Constituency Association members express their thanks and appreciation to the committees and those who helped to make the picnic a success; also to the merchants, for their donations, which so enlarged the prize list.

After Jim Sacket's record wheat and spuds, we wonder what Messrs. Scholefield and Calhoun will do.

H. P. Wright, of Airdrie, was a business visitor in town Monday.

Edmonton, were visitors at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Banta. Mrs. J. Shannon, of Edmonton, has recently been visiting the parental Banta home also.

Cochrane Unity Executive Meets

Delegates comprising the nomination convention for the Banff-Cochrane provincial constituency will determine the term by which the candidate chosen at the convention shall be designated, it was decided at a meeting of the executive of the constituency Unity organization in Calgary during the week-end.

Nominating convention is scheduled for Cochrane, at 2 p. m., Wednesday, August 2, and delegates are to be chosen by all citizens not supporting the present Alberta administration, irrespective of their political persuasions, on the basis of one delegate for each 50, or fraction thereof, names on the 1935 polling lists.

Plans are proceeding, H. P. Wright, Airdrie, president of organization stated, for meetings in the polling subdivisions for the naming of delegates.

The outstanding feature of the above meeting occurred when a suggestion was made by the leading Liberal to amalgamate and be called the Liberal Unity. This roused the ire of our good citizen, Mr. T. Tredaway, and he certainly made a speech not soon to be forgotten by those present.

There will be primary meetings of the voters of the different polls to elect delegates to attend the nominating convention at Cochrane on August 2nd.

All are welcome at these meetings, which have been arranged in the local polling divisions as follows:

Summit Hill, at Dog Pound, July 18th.

Greenwood, at Greenwood School, at 8:00 p.m., July 24th.

Tan-y-Bryn, Meadowside and East Community, at East Community Hall, at 8:00 p.m., July 24 Airdrie, Glen Rock and Mountain View, at Airdrie, at 8:00 p.m.,

Crossfield, in the Fire Hall, at 8:00 p.m., July 25th.

Notices are being posted. Watch for notice of your local meeting; this is your job.

James A. Richardson.

Dreamer-Pioneer-Philanthropist

With that deep gripping sorrow, which for the moment makes the mind and heart oblivious to all else, Canadian people from the Pacific to the Atlantic learned of the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. James Richardson.

James Richardson was one of a small group of men — some of whom fortunately are still living and active — who are the rare and particular creation of new countries which like Canada, teem with undeveloped natural resources.

James Richardson inherited wealth, and by unrelenting hard work, by business ability, and particularly by sterling integrity, he greatly increased his fortune, and then he dreamed great dreams of how he could use that wealth to improve the lot of his fellow man and to advance the interests of his country.

James Richardson inherited a large wheat handling and exporting business; and his first best and last love was wheat, and dearest to all to his heart was the desire to help the prairie wheat growers, by trying to market more of their wheat overseas and by endeavouring to win for them from world buyers the highest possible price for their product. He took a keen interest in encouraging and financing those who were attempting to develop ways and means of lowering cost of production; all so that prairie farmers might make more profits from their efforts.

James Richardson also had visions of the great benefits that might accrue to all from the opening up of the mineral resources of our north country, and so he financed mines and sponsored Western Canada Airways — which afterwards developed into Canadian Airways — which made available freight, mail and passenger service by aeroplane to the north. His Company too was a pioneer in the carrying of mail by aeroplane across the Western prairies.

It would be difficult to assess the debt owing to him by those who today directly and indirectly profit from the steady stream of wealth flowing from northern mines and other resources. It is also unquestionably true to state that had it not been for James Richardson's air pioneering we might not yet be enjoying our existing fine airmail and air passenger trans-continental services.

Very dear to his heart, and most private with him, was the splendid use for social purposes which he made of the wealth he had inherited and had later increased through his bold and courageous enterprises. Little of it did he use for his own benefit or comfort, excepting to drive himself relentlessly to make his dreams and visions come true, and this driving is what in the end over-taxed his heart in the full flower of his manhood.

With his keen enthusiasm and his money, he supported innumerable schemes which people brought to him, and he required only to be assured that the plans should have the object of creating additional employment for people, or of improving the living conditions of farmers and others. It has been said that no man with anything like a worthy cause ever came away from James Richardson empty handed.

Considering his great visions, his dreams, his adventurous spirit, his pioneering and his wide activities, one cannot help but be struck by the similarity between James Richardson and another great man, who also devoted his wealth and energies towards the advancement of his race and of his country, namely: Cecil Rhodes. Rhodes' diamonds, Richardson's wheat, Rhodes' gold, Richardson's nickel. Rhodes' feverish and persistent efforts to open up northern Africa for England by telegraph and railroad. Richardson's similar efforts to open up our north for Canada by aeroplane. Rhodes' love of education and his endowment of Universities. Richardson's similar love of education and endowment of Universities. Rhodes' support of worthy enterprises in South Africa. Richardson's support of similar enterprises in Canada. Rhodes' great public munificencies, charities and support of the Church. Richardson's gifts of the same order. And so we find a striking parallel between these two great men, each of whom devoted his wealth and his efforts to the improvement of the country in which he lived.

The farmers of our prairies, and the people of the whole of Canada, are better off because James Richardson lived and worked and dreamed and pio-

AND NEWS by Phil Carscallen
PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT CFAC

Club Matinee Emcees

Garry Morfit, 24 year-old comedian whose rapid rise to popularity as a radio entertainer has been accomplished in three short years, is the master of ceremonies of the Club Matinee broadcasts over CFAC each Friday and Saturday at 1:00 p.m. Ransom Sherman, veteran Club Matinee emcee, presides over the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday broadcasts.

Entering the radio field three years ago as a script writer, Morfit later went to New York where he appeared on many network programs. Now his sparkling humor and novel nonsense is a standard feature on this regular feature.

"Yippers" Improve Job By Lying Down

That dog-barking imitations for radio sound more natural when the person who does them lies flat on the floor was a fact discovered in "The Life and Love of Dr. Susan," studio the other day. It all occurred when the "yipper" (i.e. radio term for dog imitator) stood facing the mike. Result: the puppies in the script sounded too loud. Moving away from the microphone crused the effects to be lost when Dr. Susan or other characters in the script spoke.

As a last resort the director suggested that the "yipper" lie flat on the floor. The effect was so realistic that when the three-year-old daughter of the organist heard the bark in the control room, she rushed into the studio to look for the dog.

The program is heard over CFAC, Mondays, through Fridays, at 11:15 a.m.

Water Valley Notes.

The charity event sponsored for Clifford Jordon brought in $18.40, $5 of which was left with Walter May for necessities when he returns and the balance was sent to his doctor. Les was again seen stepping out (be canny). Major and Oscar discovering there is a girl apiece, but Oscar gave up and is at Madden building a house for Mr. McLaren. Six-Gun making dates and breaking them. Jardine chasing down the coffee pitcher. Fern had better stick neered, and "There will never come an end to the great good which he did."

Crossfield at Calgary Stampede Parade

Waiting for the parade to begin was anything but dull for spectators at Seventh avenue and Sixth street west, where the institutions section formed up this morning. Two oldtime orchestras, Harry Hall's and the Prairie Serenaders, from Crossfield, were placed side by side, and each was not to be outdone one by the other in entertaining the crowd.

to horse and cart and leave V8 alone. Mr. Ward sporting a new hat. (I did not say boots). Six-Gun seen showing Glen the ropes. A lady heard saying she was in on Six-Gun's secret. We understand Troublesome Valley has moved to Water Valley, but we hope it is a false report. Jack says it is tough face to face and would rather take it through the Chronicle. Major just told us he is the winner, he got the knot tied the other day. (That a boy).

A WIRE-CUT

Readers will remember my remarks about the farmer who followed instructions for control of cutworms but worked the thistle patches and had most of the crop eaten off, except the patches.

I have had it explained to me that this must have been wire-worm and not cutworm damage (apparently the farmer guessed wrong.) Cultivation destroys the wire worm pupa, and a study of the habits and instructions for control, show that this must be the answer. He just had the wrong worm. How did it happen? What did that farmer do to those patches that stopped the worms (wire or cut) right up to the line of cultivation, while they worked all around and between. From all I can learn, this man did exactly what we have all done many times.

SOW SOME GRASS

Quite a lot of breaking being done this year, and that is good business, but it should be rounded out by sowing the oldest, windblown and weedy acreage to grass.

There is still some Bromes seed at the Rosebud M.D. office, and Mr. Sutherland will be very pleased to tell you all about it. He has no sacks.

FIELD BINDWEED

A weed which is slowly taking possession is field bindweed, perhaps better known to some as wild morning-glory. There are many more conspicuous and more rapidly-spreading weeds, which therefore occasion more alarm, but it is doubtful whether any one of them is so difficult to eradicate as this. All indications point to its occurrence being more general than has been supposed. Aside from its persistence, its objectionableness lies in its entangling growing crops, about which it winds for support. When these are low or, or absent the weed creeps about forming broad mats of foliage; when they are tall, or when a fence or hedge affords support, the vines may grow to a considerable height.

When bindweed gets established in gardens, and similar places, it will usually be best to remove the crop to another location as very little headway can be made in fighting the weed among them and their supports. The flowers are about an inch across, white or pinkish; very like morning glories in shape, but larger. Wild buckwheat which is sometimes mistaken for Bindweed is an annual, and the roots are quite different.

We have been told that Eric Hopkins is setting a very poor example for the children. One of these days he is going to land in jail.

Bindweed is a strong growing perennial.

If some farmers do not have a change of heart (or something) our coulee banks will be ruined by tansy mustard and stinkweed in a few years; this has already happened in some parts of the province. Stinkweed on your road is no credit to you. Why not mow it now. You will notice some progressive farmers, the particular ones did this weeks ago, at least it looks better.

And how about showing the right progressive spirit by getting our roads mowed.

Loud protest and abuse is to be expected by he who treads upon the toes of the mighty.

The concern of those who sponsor the Unity ideas is for the public good; it should be obvious to any thinking person that there can be no personal advantage to anyone—which may account for the attitude of some. The tragic truth is, that of late years we have become colloused and anticipate personal profit as the motive for public service, the office seeker abounds.

We have become so accustomed to seeing third rate uniformed nonentities, parading in their self appointed positions of authority, that we have almost lost the true vision and meaning of duty, and the responsibilities of service to the state. Too often have we seen principals and convictions freely abandoned for personal gain; the pious and glad-hand opportunist, selling his shrunken soul for the doubtful glories of office—and temporary power. And then failure,—followed by whining excuses, bombastic abuse of others, trickery, deceit, evasion and hypocrisy.

He who would defend democracy has much to refute circumstantial evidence is against him.

Freedom without discipline is chaos, discipline without freedom is hell, chaos is also hell—what have we? We speak of the lost generation, there is another generation that has lost its way and its guide.

Wake up, or die in your sleep!

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. Strange

Many farmers this year will have either plots or small acreages of some of the new varieties of wheat; in Manitoba and Saskatchewan one of the new rust-resistant varieties, i.e. Thatcher, Renown, Apex and Regent; and in Alberta some farmers are trying Thatcher and Renown, and others are changing from Garnet to Red Bobs.

The harvesting of plots or small fields must be done with exceeding care if mixtures are to be avoided. Professional seed growers, who are highly experienced in these matters, always clean out the binder carefully before each new variety, and then stook the bundles of each variety on its own stubble, leaving a wide space between these stooks and those of other varieties.

Extreme care, too, must be used in threshing. Oats should be threshed before each different variety of wheat. The racks carrying the bundles to the machine should be thoroughly swept out, and then the separator should be carefully cleaned. Even after all this the first few bushels coming from the separator should be discarded.

Most seed growers thresh a few stooks of a new variety by hand on a sheet, or on a verandah to assure that some seed will be absolutely unmixed with other varieties.
